

Performance Management in GMS

GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY

Performance Management

Performance Management is the continuous process of identifying, measuring and developing employee performance.

The process is designed to facilitate manager and employee discussions around expectations and performance, acknowledge achievements, identify areas for improvement and plan for future development.

Performance Management Objectives

- Foster a culture of employee engagement, feedback, accountability, and performance excellence
- Create an environment in which managers and employees can regularly communicate about departmental and individual goals and accomplishments

Employee Responsibilities

- Consistently perform assigned responsibilities and contribute to the department's goals and business objectives
- Take an active role in developing and achieving individual performance goals
- Consistently demonstrate good conduct, including attendance, ethical use of work time and University resources
- Take reasonable care for their own health and safety as well as the health and safety of others

Manager Responsibilities

- Provide honest, clear and concise expectations of an employee's responsibilities
- Provide on-going guidance and feedback
- Work with employees to develop individual goals that support the department's mission
- Consistently and fairly enforce policy and procedure
- Maintain a safe and productive work environment

WHAT'S HAPPENING?

On March 1, Performance Management will be live in GMS as a Business Process!

As a result, there are changes to discuss.

What are the Benefits for Employees?

- Standardize Performance Management Processes and Systems
- The Evaluation is easy to complete, route and retain.
- Real Time Tracking of Goals
 - Easily access performance goals and manager feedback with on-demand dashboards!
- Professional Development Tools

What isn't changing?

- HR Policies regarding Performance
 - None of these have changed!
 - The Human Resources Policy Manual has all the information you need regarding Employee Performance.
- The Performance Evaluation Process
- The Participants
 - Administrative Employees and their Managers will continue to participate in the Performance Management Process

Performance Evaluation Participants

- Regular and Term Administrative employees hired prior to February 28, 2019, who have successfully completed any applicable probationary period.

GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY

Elements of the Performance Review

Competencies

Goals Assessment

Accomplishments

Overall

Professional Development

Competency

A set of defined behaviors, knowledge, skills, and abilities required for effective performance.

For your Performance Review,
evaluate yourself on the following competencies for this review period.

Competencies

Functional Knowledge

Work Quality

Professionalism and Inclusion

Service and Dependability

Initiative

Communication and Collaboration

Managing Others
(Managers only)

Full definitions are listed in the business process itself.

The order listed on the screen is the same order you will see it in GMS in the drop-down menu.

Ratings

Unsatisfactory

Needs Improvement

Meets Expectations

4

Exceeds Expectations

Exceptional

We use a 5 point rating scale to assign a level of performance to each of these competencies.

The order listed on the screen is the same order you will see it in GMS in the drop-down menu.

Goals Assessment

Copy and Paste Goals from your previous Review Period.

If you did not have Goals from the previous Review Period for any reason, skip this section.
Further, your review will not be negatively affected due to the absence of goals.

Not
Required

Accomplishments

List any achievements above and beyond your job requirements and goals for the performance review period.

- Can relate to your competencies, job responsibilities, or goals.
- The Comments section should be used to highlight the unique nature of the accomplishment or the positive impact it had on the organization.

Not
Required

Overall

Input your Summary rating for the year.

- Does not have to be an average of the competency ratings, but must be consistent
- Take the following into account when rating your overall performance?
 - Relative significance of competencies and goals
(Which ones are most critical to success in your position?)
 - Use comments to explain your rating

Professional Development

Describe the means by which you believe you can develop your professional skills in the coming year.

- Mark as many types of development activities as you like
- Use the comments to be specific about what you've included

Feedback

Recognize

- Giving and receiving feedback is essential to creating a culture of collaboration, engagement, and success
- Giving and receiving feedback can be an uncomfortable situation

Be Direct, Be Kind

- Offer an opportunity for growth, include specific examples of behavior

Do Not Make it Personal

- Imagined slights and malice are toxic

Feedback

Listen

- Managers and employees must understand the situation together in order to make positive change
- Allow moments of silence to come into the conversation

Show Up, Be Present

- Stay engaged and maintain focus

Inspire Greatness

- Respectful, direct feedback can restore the individual and the team

STAR Feedback Model

Situation

Use precise terms to answer the following:

- When did the event occur?
- Where were you?
- Who was involved?

Task

Explain the task undertaken:

- What was expected?
- By whom?

Action Taken

Observed behavior:

- Did the behavior meet expectations?
- Why? Or why not?

Result

What was the impact on others?

- What was the impact to the organization?
- What do you expect going forward?

“The registration for our upcoming student symposium was low. Steve spent extra time updating our communication materials and reaching out to potential registrants resulting in higher attendance. Great work, Steve!”

“After securing interest with potential new grant funders, Morgan did not adequately prepare for their first meeting, and now the funding is in jeopardy. We need Morgan to do a run through of the presentation with us in advance of our next meeting to be sure she is prepared.”

CREATING “SMART” GOALS

Why do we create goals?

- Allow employees and managers to establish clear expectations at the beginning of the performance evaluation period
- Create a context and a structure for having an ongoing dialogue about work performance and achievements

SMART Goals

Specific

- Use precise terms to answer:
 - What will be done?
 - Why? Where? How?

Measurable

- How much?
- How many?
- What is the number, percent, and/or ratio?

Attainable

- No? Why not?

Relevant

- How does it impact the organization?
- How does this goal fit into the organization's larger goals?

Time-Bound

- When is it due?
- When should the goal be accomplished?

Jane Hoya's Job Responsibilities

Administration - 30%

Events – 30%

Fiscal Assistance - 10%

Research – 30%

Events

- Serve as primary initiator of communications and marketing strategy reaching various audiences: students, faculty, community members

Jane Hoya's Goals

Goal

- Communicate announcements regularly with members of the community.

SMART Goal

- Produce and issue weekly newsletters to all students, staff and faculty every Monday via email, and update the News section of the website every Friday.

Relating Goals to Competencies

- When an Employee inputs a goal in GMS, he or she must select a competency as well
- Allow employees and managers to align performance evaluation with the progress of success and challenges over the course of the year

Goal Process Overview

The flowchart consists of four colored boxes connected by green lines. The first box is green, the second is orange, the third is blue, and the fourth is purple. Each box is connected to the next by a green line, and the entire process is framed by a green arrow pointing downwards.

Performance Meeting

During the Performance Meeting between the Employee and their Manager, goals for the next review period should be identified.

Employee Inputs Goals

The Employee will launch the To Do from their GMS Inbox and input their Goals in GMS. Once complete, he or she will click Submit.

Manager Approval

The Manager will launch the Employee's Goals from their Inbox for review. He or she can click Approve, or Send Back for further revision.

Dashboards

Once approved, the Goals will appear in GMS for both the Employee and Manager on specific Performance Dashboards.

DEMONSTRATION!

Please watch while your instructor demonstrates:

Goals in GMS

- Launching the To Do and submitting a Goal (Employee)
- Approving an Employee's Goal (Manager)
- Reviewing the My Performance Dashboard (Employee)
